

HFE Human Factors and Ergonomics Namibia Newsletter

Back to Basics!

Understanding the scope of Human Factors / Ergonomics is helpful when you don't know if you need the services. As part of our public perception campaign this month, this newsletter provides details on the scope.

It is all about understanding how people interact with elements in a system - whether that system is at work, at home or in public spaces. By applying scientific knowledge about people to design processes, spaces, policies or tools - the purpose is to optimise it for human use.

By doing so - we aim to reduce not only injuries and errors, but to optimise performance.
